

WHAT IS A LEADERSHIP PROJECT?

An opportunity for you to design and lead an effort that taps into your expertise, network, passion, and creativity. It also helps you:

- APPLY NEW SKILLS, approaches, and mindsets
- COLLABORATE WITH PEERS in your cohort and global public health at large
- BUILD upon the Leadership Projects of WomenLift Alumnae
- GROW PROFESSIONALLY but also ADVANCE ISSUES at the intersection of gender equality and health, as proposed in WomenLift Health's Theory of Change

Projects should lie at the intersection of health equity and gender equality. They should fall into four themes:

Centering women and girls in health

Catalyzing institutional change

Optimizing pathways to leadership

Building integrated & resilient health systems

YOUR LEADERSHIP PROJECT COULD:

- Answer a research question or develop a tool or technology
- Take a gender lens to health data, policy, practice, research, or a process/system in your organization
- Expand the power and influence of women in your organization or community
- Add to public discourse or advocacy on gender equality and/or health equity

LEADERSHIP PROJECT IMPACT

DEVELOP YOURSELF: SCOPE, SKILLS, LENS

The scope of the Leadership Project could leverage your day-to-day work to make it more sustainable, but it should also include an opportunity to stretch you beyond the usual.

- Develop or enhance a leadership skill
- Add another lens to your thinking

Influence, Trust, and Collaboration - Strive to engage others, believe in, them and get things done through partnership and collaboration

Presence - Set goals for communicating your ideas more effectively

Vision - Cultivate your idea into a broader and more inclusive vision

Diversity - The presence of and respect for difference

Equity - The recognition that resources and opportunities are not allocated equally to all

Inclusion - Being intentional about welcoming and including a diversity of people and perspectives

DEVELOP OTHERS: INDIVIDUALS, INSTITUTIONS, SOCIETY

- Individuals — Could your project include mentoring or sponsoring others?
- Institutions — Are there learnings and experiences you could take back to your team or institutional leaders?
- Society — How can you add to the public discourse, advocacy and representation agenda, or thought leadership around your project idea?

LEADERSHIP PROJECT ROADMAP

PHASE 1

PROJECT IDEA CREATION

In your Leadership Journey application, craft an idea for your Leadership Project that:

- Is something you are passionate and care about
- Focuses on improving outcomes at the intersection of health and gender equality, or takes a gendered lens on a global health issue
- Aligns with your workstream or something that you will otherwise be able to sustain
- Stretches you beyond your comfort zone / challenges you to grow
- Leverages your leadership skills
- Helps you to better showcase yourself not only as a health technical expert, but also as a current and future leader

Share a title and a short description that includes:

- Brief background (no more than 1-2 short paragraphs)
- How you plan to accomplish & implement your project. We do not need an implementation plan at this stage, but would like to get a sense of how you would approach your goal.
- Intended impact: Think about impact with a manageable “i”, an approach that allows you to grow and to include others in this journey.

Remember, the most successful Leadership Projects:

- Are targeted, specific, relevant, achievable, measurable
- Are fueled by your passion, deep interests
- Can realistically start being implemented within the duration of the Leadership Journey
- Can continue beyond the Journey and do not have to be fully wrapped up by the end of the year

PHASE 2

PROJECT DEVELOPMENT & REFINEMENT

From Month 1 to Month 3 of the Journey:

- Lean on the WomenLift Health team, your mentor, your Leadership Project reviewer, and your peers to refine your project idea
- Office hours
- Do I want/need to change my originally proposed project?
 - » Is it going to advance my own growth and/or develop and impact others?
 - » Is it still well aligned with my passions, goals, workload, areas where I need to stretch, etc.? Examples of stretch may include:

Incorporating design justice into the project, enabling target communities to have strong influence in the process of the project, etc.

Approaching something using a new leadership skill

Adding a gender equity or health equity lens to an existing project

- » Do I need to update the title and description of my project?
- » Is there potential to collaborate with a fellow cohort member or alumnae?
Are there projects that have synergies and could be an opportunity for cross-sharing & learning?

Month 4 – 5:

- Submit your Leadership Project proposal
 - » Theory of Change
 - » Stakeholder Analysis
 - » Implementation Plan

Month 5 – 6:

- Receive your Leadership Project review feedback
 - » Review, edit, adapt, and/or collaborate
 - » Optional Leadership Project office hours / check-in meetings

- Connections with Learning Touchpoints:
 - » In the Strengthen Your Voice & Leadership Presence month - work on your Leadership Project pitch
 - » In the Expand & Enrich Your Mindset month - discuss the challenges you are facing and receive peer coaching

PHASE 3

PROJECT IMPLEMENTATION

Month 6 – 7:

- Begin Leadership Project implementation

Month 9 – 10:

The Leadership Journey

WomenLift Health believes that global health challenges will not be solved unless talented women have a seat at the table. The Leadership Journey is designed to give talented women leaders the tools - confidence, networks, understanding of barriers - along with peer, mentor and coach support, to successfully use their voice, expertise and leadership skills for health impact. To us, women is not exclusively defined by a title or a salary increment, but by expanding the power and influence of talented women in global health.

The Leadership Journey is a fully-funded and year-long experience for mid-career women leaders.
